“Vinyl in Design – The Right Material for the Job”

SAVE THE DATE 07.21.11

Mark your calendar to join us in this AIA, GBCI and IIDA CEU event.

Vinyl in Design, presented by The Vinyl Institute, is designed to familiarize design professionals with the range of solutions vinyl provides for today's design challenges. The use of plastics in construction and interiors is increasing, and an objective of this program is to educate attendees about the various aspects and uses of this versatile material.

Terry Murphy, LEED-AP has worked in Interior Design for 27 years, with experience ranging from interior design and project management to teaching and public speaking. She has taught several different classes for DuPont on nylon technology, carpet specification, color trends and reclamation. She is now the Continuing Education Program Manager for The Vinyl Institute.

The presentation is 1 hour long and offers .1 credit hour for IDCEC and 1 LU hour for AIA. It offers HSW credit and Sustainable Design credit.

Many thanks to Amtico for sponsoring this event!

Thank you to Milliken, our Platinum Partner and to all our Chapter Partners who support IIDA throughout the year.
